DEBORAH CODDINGTON RETURNS TO NORTH & SOUTH

Award-winning journalist and former ACT MP, Deborah Coddington, has rejoined North & South magazine as a senior writer.

Ms Coddington resigned from North & South to become an ACT list MP in 2002. She contributed to North & South on and off for more than 10 years, first as a freelance contributor and then as a staff and senior writer. In 2002 Ms Coddington won the Qantas Feature Writer of the Year Award and the coveted supreme award of a Wolfson fellowship to Cambridge University.

She rejoins North & South as a senior writer based in Wellington – “pleased to be back doing what I enjoy most: significant journalism.”

North & South editor Robyn Langwell said she was delighted Ms Coddington had “come home. Deborah is one of New Zealand’s most experienced current affairs practitioners who will enhance North & South’s ability to deliver hard-hitting investigative journalism.”

North & South magazine celebrated its 20th anniversary this year and was named Qantas Newsstand Magazine of the Year.
